BOULDER CREEK QUALITY INN & SUITES...
ENHANCING GREEN INITIATIVES

Boulder, Colorado

The award-winning Boulder Creek Quality Inn & Suites has enhanced their already impressive list of green initiatives by installing Caroma brand dual flush toilets, the next generation of low flow toilets.

Burt Lewis, owner of the Boulder Creek Quality Inn & Suites decided he wanted to add to his 'green practices' and accordingly met with Mary Wiener of Boulder County's Partners for a Clean Environment (PACE) program who helped him research water conservation options. Lewis gathered the information and chose the toilets. "Being 'green' requires a lot of effort, however taking these measures to be environmentally responsible equates to being a responsible business owner. With the current trend in water shortages, it just makes sense", stated Lewis. The toilets having two flushing options: a liquid waste flush that uses a mere 0.8 gallons of water or a solid waste flush that uses 1.28 gallons. "Although the initial investment was significant, the long term benefits for the environment are well worth the funds expended. Any smart business man would invest in the future of Boulder" Lewis stated.

The Boulder Creek Quality Inn & Suites other green practices include the use of biodegradable and reusable utensils, tableware, plates, bowls, and cups. They have also invested in Wave brand dispensers for soap, shampoo, conditioner, and body lotion. This distribution method saves landfills tons of waste every year.
